

LEED Information Sheet

About Durat:

Durat is comprised of up to 28% post-industrial (pre-consumer) recycled content.

Durat has a published Health Product Declaration (HPD) for its materials.

Durat contributes to the LEED building standard in the following ways:

LEED v4	LEED 2009
Materials and Resources - Building product disclosure and optimization - sourcing of raw materials Option 2. Leadership extraction practices (1 point) Recycled content. Recycled content is the sum of postconsumer recycled content plus one-half the preconsumer recycled content, based on cost. Products meeting recycled content criteria are valued at 100% of their cost for the purposes of credit achievement calculation.	Materials and Resources – MRc4 - Recycled content Recycled Content - (up to 2 points) Use materials with recycled content such that the sum of postconsumer recycled content plus 1/2 of the preconsumer³ content constitutes at least 10% or 20%, based on cost, of the total value of the materials in the project. The minimum percentage materials recycled for each point threshold is as follows: Recycled Content – 10% - 1 point Recycled Content – 20% - 2 points
Materials and Resources - Building product disclosure and optimization - material ingredients Option 1. material ingredient reporting (1 point) Health Product Declaration. The end use product has a published, complete Health Product Declaration with full disclosure of known hazards in compliance with the Health Product Declaration open Standard.

Note: Individual products can contribute to earning point(s) using the LEED standard. The use of a certain product does not “earn” a point; it contributes to attaining a certain point. Manufacturers who state that their products “earn points” or that a project will “get a point” by using their products are misinformed. At Durat, we believe transparency and understanding of these building standards will build good partnerships with our clients.